

Register of Relevant Conflicts of Interests and Duties

6 August 2024

1. Background

Togethr Trustees Pty Ltd (the Trustee) acknowledges that the proper management of conflicts is important in protecting members' interests.

Conflicts must also be managed in order to comply with fiduciary responsibilities, relevant legal obligations and appropriate standards of corporate governance.

The Conflicts Management Policy (the Policy) documents a framework for managing situations that give rise to actual, potential and perceived conflicts of interest and duty for the Trustee, its Directors, Responsible Persons, employees and representatives. This requires early identification of conflicts and the effective use of strategies to disclose, control or avoid the conflict, in order to mitigate or manage the risk that a conflict may adversely affect the beneficiaries of the Equisuper Superannuation Fund (the Fund).

2. Scope of the Register

In accordance with the Policy, the Register of Relevant Conflicts of Interests and Duties (the Register) records relevant interests and duties of each Director and Responsible Person of the Trustee, which might reasonably be considered to have, or the potential to have, a material impact on the capacity of the Trustee, the Director or the Responsible Person, to act in a manner that is consistent with the best financial interests of the beneficiaries of the Fund.

The Register captures relevant interests and duties in respect of the Trustee and associated companies.

3. Defining a Conflict

The Trustee considers two main types of conflicts.

A conflict of duty arises when the Trustee, or one of its Directors, Responsible Persons, employees or representatives owes a duty to another person or entity that may conflict with the duty owed to the beneficiaries of the Fund (i.e., competing loyalties).

A conflict of interest arises when a personal interest of the Trustee, or one of its Directors, Responsible Persons, employees or representatives, diverges or may diverge from the best financial interests of the beneficiaries of the Fund. Interests also include gifts, emolument or benefits, whether pecuniary or non-pecuniary. Gifts are recorded in the Gifts, Benefits and Hospitality Register and would be recorded in this register once they meet the materiality threshold of being considered 'relevant' (as covered below in section 5).

For example, a conflict of duty could arise if a Director of the Trustee is also a Director of a service provider to the Fund. A conflict of interest could arise if a Director stands to gain financially from a particular decision made by the Trustee.

The Trustee recognises that conflicts can exist between a number of other scenarios, i.e., competing interests, competing duties, duty versus interest, etc.

Conflicts may be:

- a) Actual – conflicts that already exist;
- b) Potential – conflicts that may arise in future or in certain circumstances; or
- c) Perceived – conflicts where others may envision a conflict, even though technically one does not exist. For example, where a third party, who may not be privy to all relevant information to the situation at hand, may perceive that a conflict exists.

The assessment made in Column 4 of the Register refers to these definitions.

4. Conflict Management Strategies

The Trustee has developed a number of main strategies, that may be used individually or in combination, which are:

- a) Disclosure – certain conflicts can be managed through the use of clear, concise and effective disclosure of the conflict.
- b) Control – conflicts that are inherent in some business structures or transactions, can be managed through the use of effective controls. An effective control is one that prevents the conflict from compromising the quality or integrity of decision-making, compliance with relevant laws or the services provided to members of the Funds. For example, the use of information barriers.
- c) Avoidance – if a conflict were of such significance that it could not be managed through controls and must be avoided through non-appointment or resignation of an individual.

All conflicts arising in relation to matters being considered at Board and Board Committee meetings will be recorded in the minutes of the meeting, along with commentary on how the conflict was managed. For example, “Before the item was discussed Mr [Director] noted his [potentially conflicted] role and Mr [Director] abstained from the Board’s discussion on the [matter].”

5. Materiality of the Conflict

The Register identifies all material conflicts of relevant interests and duties.

In making a materiality assessment, the Trustee Board has determined that the conflict has an actual, potential or perceived impact on the capacity of the Trustee, the Director, the Responsible Person, the employee or the representative, to act in the best financial interests of the beneficiaries of the Fund.

In determining materiality, the Trustee considers:

- a) Relevant duties – whether the relevant duty could have a significant impact on the capacity of the Trustee, Director, Responsible Person, employee or representative to exercise independent judgement and act in a manner that is consistent with prioritising the best financial interests of beneficiaries of the Fund when making decisions about the entity to which the conflicting duty is owed.
- b) Relevant interests¹ – an investment held by a Designated Person in an entity in which the Fund has a direct and substantial holding (i.e. the Fund owns more than 5% of the issued capital) and which is directly held by or on behalf of a Designated Person, or controlled by a Designated Person or their Associate, or held through a company or trust (including an SMSF or family trust) where a Designated Person or their Associate are a beneficiary, other material benefits, and/or contractual arrangements. Irrespective of the monetary value, an interest will be material if the Trustee Board considers it likely that a reasonable person would believe that he or she could be influenced by the interest.

For further guidance on materiality, please refer to the Policy.

¹ an interest includes any direct shareholding or other ownership interest, right or entitlement and excludes ASX listed investment products.
